U. S. TROOPS TO REMAIN IN MEXICO

CARRANZA MUST SHOW
ABILITY TO PROTECT THE BORDER.

THIS IS WILSON'S REPLY
GEN. PERSHING'S CAV-ALRY MAINTAINS
PATROL.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—It was stated authoritatively today that American troops will not be withdrawn from Mexico until the Carranza authorities demonstrate control of the situation sufficient to protect the American border. A reply to that effect probably will be made to General Carranza's note. President Wilson was represented today as ready to withdraw the troops when possible but determined to wait until the Carranza forces control the situation.

Steps were taken by the war department today to obtain more definite information of the disposition of Carranza troops in Chihuahua. It was said that the tone of Carranza's note prompted the action of military officials without regard to the diplomatic phases of the situation. General Funston has been asked to outline clearly the situation in Chihuahua according to his most recent information of the whereabouts of Carranza detachments. No anxiety is felt for the safety of General Pershing's columns, but in view of the statements in General Carranza's note it is desired to know as accurately as possible what the movements of his forces are.

It was explained at the war department that the real mission of the expedition at this time was to prevent attacks upon the wide sections of the border controlled by its position in Mexico. As a question of military strategy, it is considered that only a force disposed as are General Pershing's troops could accomplish that.

A large border garrison or patrol, it was pointed out, might repel an attack but could not make it impossible. Cavalry patrols are active through the territory on both sides of General Pershing's base and his line of communications, and war department officials hold that a condition of complete security is being maintained in this region and along the border, despite the allegations of the Carranza note that the expedition is "interned in Chihuahua state," lying idle and with no military object, its position constituting a continued menace to the peace of the two countries.

No additional troop movements were in contemplation today so far as known.

EL PASO, Texas, June 1.—General Gabriel Gavira, constitutionalist commander of northern Chihuahua, who went to Casas Grandes yesterday to confer with General Pershing, the American expeditionary commander, is expected to return to Juarez tonight or early tomorrow. This announcement was made in Juarez today by General Francisco Gonzalez upon receipt of a message from General Gavira.

FINDLAY HAS SOMETHING.

FINDLAY, Ohio, June 1.—The board of health announces there have been nearly 500 cases of measles in this city since the first of the year. There is no abatement, and from 10 to 20 cases are still being reported daily.

GERMAN EDITOR PAYS TRIBUTE TO MR. WILSON

Maximilian Harden, editor Die (Berlin) Zukunft: He is a man of high moral and high intellectual rank, a man of whom, if he belonged to us, we might be proud. President Wilson is at least an American Fichte. Fichte was Germany's professor-statesman, who aroused humbled Prussia to a new sense of power after she had been crushed by Napoleon.

Are we to talk about forbidding this or that "tone" if President Wilson, after a thorough examination, is convinced that a long series of German acts of war have bored holes through the laws of humanity and international morality? He not only has the right, but the duty, to speak with ruthless plainness. He owes the fulfillment of this duty not only to his own, but also to our country.

TELEGRAPH TIPS

TIFFIN.—David P. Graham and Gus Peterson were indicted for second degree murder today by the grand jury. They are held at the county jail charged with the murder of Albert Latona, during a clash of strike sympathizers and guards at the plant of the Webster Manufacturing company. Both are guards. Joseph R. Faber, held on a first degree murder charge, James Lehr, J. J. Griffin and Robert Barton, guards, were indicted for carrying concealed weapons. Steve Polski, laborer, was indicted for assaulting a non-union workman at the plant.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao.—Twenty persons were killed or wounded in an outbreak at Maracaibo, Venezuela, against General Garcia, who has been appointed president of the state of Zulia, succeeding Temporary President Transguren. Troops fired on citizens who tried to prevent General Garcia landing from the steamer Merida which had taken him to Maracaibo.

LONDON.—A further message received today from Lieutenant Sir Ernest Shackleton, the Antarctic explorer whose arrival at Port Stanley, Falkland islands, was made known yesterday shows that the expedition had a remarkable escape. After meeting with almost unprecedented weather in the early part of 1915, the lieutenant's ship Endurance was badly nipped by great icebergs and afterwards foundered. Sir Ernest succeeded in getting off all his men and some stores. Terrible privations were suffered.

MAYORS TO REVIEW THE PREPAREDNESS PARADE SATURDAY

Business Houses to Allow Employees Three Hours to March.

Procession to Leave Wayne and Main Streets at 1:30 O'Clock.

Reports of the sub-committees indicate that there will be thousands of people in the preparedness parade, Saturday, June 3. The manner in which all of the organizations and heads of industries are boosting the affair predicts that the demonstration will be one of great magnitude.

When the head of the parade reaches the public square the long line will halt and Mayor Simpson and the visiting mayors from the surrounding towns will step from the line and mount the reviewing stand. At a given signal by the grand marshal the bands, which, for the occasion, will be assembled in the square, will play the "Star Spangled Banner." The entire assemblage will join in singing the two verses and the chorus.

An order for 3000 flags was placed yesterday with a concern by Superintendent J. E. Collins of Lima schools. All public school pupils joining this division of the parade will be given a flag free. The Locomotive and Gramm-Bernstein companies have also agreed to furnish their employees with flags. Business and professional of the city will have their separate divisions.

Show Your Colors! All wholesale and retail merchants of Lima are earnestly requested by the executive committee of the patriotic parade to close their places of business at 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, June 3, and remain closed until 3 o'clock, thereby giving their employees and themselves an opportunity to take part in the great nation wide patriotic demonstration.

The parade moves from Wayne and Main streets at 1:30 sharp. All persons in the merchants division will assemble on the east side of Elizabeth street with the head of the column at Wayne street. Each marcher is asked to carry an American flag.

It is desirable that each branch of business form a separate platoon of the merchants division, viz dry goods, boots and shoes, clothing, jewelers, etc. No advertising of any nature is permitted but each store may carry a banner indicating who they are. Let everyone march and show their loyalty to the flag.

Frank E. Harmon, G. E. Blum, Jefferson Morris, business men's committee, seventh division, patriotic parade.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., June 1.—Oscar Baldwin, a telegraph operator, whose home is in Springfield, Ohio, pleaded guilty of the charge of having embezzled $1.25 from the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern railroad while temporarily employed in the Charleston office last night. Magistrate John M. Long remanded him to jail.

NO LET UP IN VIOLENCE AT VERDUN

BATTLE, NOW PAST ITS HUNDREDDTH DAY,
STILL FIERCE.

'MEAT LINES' IN GERMANY

EGGS AND FISH ARE
STAPLES PLentiful
IN BERLIN.

The momentous battle at Verdun, now past its hundredth day, shows no signs of slackening in violence, but the latest official reports, in contrast with most of those issued during the last few days, record no further advances for the Germans.

The center of the bitterest fighting has shifted somewhat to the southwest of the front between Cimetieres and Dead Man's Hill, west of the Meuse, where the Germans have scored most of their recent gains. Dead Man's Hill, on the ground in its immediate vicinity, has been the scene of the latest infantry engagements. The Germans attacked the French positions here last night, but were completely repulsed, according to this afternoon's bulletin from Paris, the German defeat following a success for the French achieved yesterday, when they captured from the Germans a fortified position southwest of the hill.

Unofficial reports from Paris point to the growing intensity of the seagrate struggle at Verdun. They declare, however, that despite the tremendous efforts of the Germans, the French line west of the Meuse is still unbroken and that the Germans must score further advances here before they can force the main issue by carrying the battle to the opposite bank of the Meuse, where the Bras-Douaumont-Vaux line continues to bar a direct advance upon the fortress.

Current bulletins on the campaign in the southern Tyrol record continued gains for the Austrians, who are battering at the line southeast of Rovereto running through the regions of Schio, Arterio and Asiago. The Italians admit withdrawal along some sectors of this front, but there has as yet been no breach in the main line of their defense which bars the way to the Venetian plains.

'MEAT LINES' IN GERMANY.

Eggs and Fish Are Staples Still Plentiful in Berlin.

BERLIN, June 1.—For the first time since the outbreak of the war, meat is hard to obtain in Germany. "Meat lines" have been established in which many persons wait for hours to secure the portions called for by government cards. Heavy demands upon the supply by the army and the discouragement of the authorities of slaughter of cattle before fattening is the main cause of the scarcity of meat.

Thousands of tons of pork were spoiled last year through improper curing because of lack of help. This year the production is expected to be excellent, as a partial offset to the meat situation. Importation of corn from Rumania and a good potato crop are also considered in the prospects of improvement in the food situation.

Production of butter has fallen off to practically nothing, making essential a material increase in production of pork fat. Milk and butter will not be obtainable in any normal quantity until several months after the war, it is certain. Importation of these products after the war until the production is again normal, is now being arranged.

Eggs and fish are the staples that are plentiful. The bright ray in the German national cupboard is the prospect of a bumper grain crop. The grain crop conditions are also good in Austria-Hungary and in territories occupied by the central powers, relieving any anxiety as to the cereal supply. Russian prisoners are being developed as farm hands and unless unexpected rain and storms intervene, the bread problem is solved, with a whole loaf to all.

PARIS, June 1.—The Germans were completely repulsed in an attack delivered upon the French positions at Dead Man's Hill, about 3 o'clock last night, according to an official statement issued by the war office today. A violent bombardment continued in this region throughout the night. An intense artillery duel is in progress on the east and west fronts at Douaumont.

FALLS 80 FEET, KILLED.

LORAIN, O., June 1.—John F. Dibble, 38, fell 80 feet from a scaffold at the National Tube company plant today and was instantly killed.

WAITE, SENTENCED TO DEATH, THANKS THE COURT FOR TRIAL

Expresses Sorrow For the Trouble and Suffering
He Caused.

Pocket Mirror, Broken in Pieces Found in Prisoner's Pocket.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Dr. Arthur Warren Waite was today sentenced to die in the electric chair during the week of July 10—the penalty for the murder of his father-in-law, John E. Peck, of which he was convicted.

When Dr. Waite was presented to the bar his counsel moved that he be granted a new trial. This was denied by the court and sentence was then imposed.

When Justice Shearn concluded the sentence, Waite delivered a short speech in which he expressed appreciation of the manner in which his trial was conducted and his thanks to the court, the prosecutors and to his own attorney. Dr. Waite said he was very sorry for his crimes and for the trouble and suffering he had caused others. He declared that he hoped by surrendering his body for punishment he would compensate in some small degree for the deaths of his victims.

Waite entered the court room in custody of two deputy sheriffs, head erect, step firm and as cool, apparently, as if there were nothing more serious ahead of him than one of the tennis games in which he has so often participated as expert player. He addressed the court with suave politeness and without a trace of agitation, although his voice wavered with an evident touch of feeling as he spoke of his sorrow for his crimes.

"I thank the court," he said to Justice Shearn, "for the very fair and impartial manner in which it has treated me. I also thank the jurors for the courteous manner in which they listened to me. I feel that their judgment was justified. My sincere thanks are due to the Prosecuting Attorney Mr. Brothman, who was always nice with me. Mr. Deuel, my counsel is also entitled to my thanks. He believed implicitly that I was not guilty."

"I ask for forgiveness. I am very glad to give my body in expiation for the things I have done and I give my soul freely to rectify my misdeeds. I hope it will go on and on forever and ever to purge itself."

Within an hour after sentence was imposed, Waite was on board a train for the state prison.

When he was searched before going to the court room this morning a small pocket mirror, broken in two pieces, was found in his pocket. The pieces of glass were taken from him.

Ohio Democrats Open State Meet, Secretary Baker Gives Keynote

BULLETIN.

COLUMBUS, June 1.—The fourth district organization is as follows: Vice president of convention, Fred M. Widemuth, Shelby; credentials committee, W. A. Laver, Darke; permanent organization, S. D. Ortes, Allen; rules, Emmet Mannix, Mercer; resolutions, J. H. Goeke of Auglaize; presidential elector, Lem D. Neely, Auglaize. Jeff Coombes of Miami, it is reported, has been agreed upon as a compromise candidate for Congress by the Goeke forces. The suggestion is refuted by Charles C. Marshall of Sidney, for the Cunningham forces.

MEMORIAL HALL, COLUMBUS, O., June 1.—Ex-Governor James M. Cox of Dayton, this afternoon, formally announced his candidacy for governor, in an address before the democratic state convention here.

His speech immediately followed that of Secretary of War Newton D. Baker of Cleveland, who was temporary chairman. Senator Atlee Pomerene was made permanent chairman of the convention.

Ex-Governor Cox flayed the present republican state administration and declared it had failed to make the most of Ohio's new constitution. He insisted that if a private business should be run as Ohio has been under the Willis administration, it would soon be bankrupt.

After selecting presidential electors-at-large the convention will recess until August 30, when they will return to Columbus to adopt a platform, endorse candidates and formally open their campaign.

It was said that President Wilson would be invited to come to Columbus for the recessed session and deliver an address formally opening the national and Ohio campaigns.

Sentiment seemed to be against the endorsement of candidates at today's convention, although it was said that the records of former Governor Cox, Senator Pomerene and President Wilson would be indorsed in resolutions to be presented to the convention.

A routine meeting of the state central committee was held at noon, and a meeting of the delegates to the national convention was held at about the same time.

Delegates met by districts this morning and selected members of the various convention committees and presidential electors from their districts.

The following presidential electors were selected: Third, Edwin Oates; 4, L. G. Neely; 5, T. T. Ansberry; 6, Stephen D. McLoughlin; 7, Thomas D. Wallace; 8, Walter W. Woolford; 9, D. C. Donovan; 10, Louis Horwitz; 11, H. M. Dunnick; 12, Fred J. Heer; 13, Frank T. Dore; 14, D. K. Paake; 15, Henry W. Amos; 16, W. E. Chancellor; 17, James P. Seward; 18, W. O. Wallace; 19, D. F. Dunlavy; 20, John Krause; 21, William F. Thompson; 22, Joseph E. Johnson.

Senator Pomerene was selected permanent chairman without opposition at a meeting of the committee presided over by John A. O'Dwyer of Toledo. John A. Dodd of Circleville, was named secretary; C. A. McCleary of Columbus, Fred Beckler of Athens, and Daniel Murphy of Dayton, were made assistant secretaries, and other officers were named as follows: C. A. Reasoner of Zanesville, sergeant-at-arms; Charles L. Resch of Columbus, chief usher; Rev. L. W. Doonan of Columbus, chaplain.

Selection of a new democratic national committeeman will be made at St. Louis, the day before the opening of the democratic national convention by the Ohio delegation. This was decided today at a meeting of the Ohio delegation which met to make plans for the convention.

It was decided that the delegation will not go in a body to St. Louis, as many cannot leave their homes at the same time.

HEALTH BOARD TO DEMAND THAT ALL DOGS BE MUZZLED

Possible That Many Canines Are Infected by Mad Animal.

State Expert Declares the Dog Submitted Had Hydrophobia.

Health Officer A. L. Jones stated today that the department of health was making a thorough investigation of all cases where persons are said to have been bitten by dogs before taking any definite action in the case. Although he said that nothing official from the state board of health had been reported to him in regard to the result of the examination of the head of the dog which attacked the young daughter of H. P. Maus, information received from the latter, he stated, indicated that the dog was afflicted with hydrophobia.

Official information in regard to the condition of the dog has been asked for from the state board of health by members of the city health board of Lima. If the report that the dog was afflicted with hydrophobia is verified, the mayor will be requested to issue a proclamation to the effect that all dogs in the city be muzzled and kept off the streets. Those that are not taken care of in the proper manner, following the orders from the mayor will be shot on sight by patrolmen.

H. P. Maus accompanied by his wife and the young daughter, who was attacked by the dog, arrived in Lima from Columbus, last night. The state expert after examining the head of the dog informed Mr. Maus that it was afflicted with hydrophobia and advised him to take the child to the Phillips Pasteur institute for treatment. The patient was taken to the hospital and given two of the treatments and sufficient serum for 21 additional treatments was brought home by the father.

Calls to the health department have been numerous since the condition of the dog has been made known.

The department is fearful that the situation may grow exceedingly dangerous because of the possibility of many other dogs contracting the disease from the one which attacked the Maus child. It is feared that an epidemic of rabies is liable to result. Six persons who give an accurate description of the canine have reported their cases to the department. It is believed that each of them was attacked by the same dog.

The following is a communication received late this afternoon by H. P. Maus from the state board of health confirming the report that the dog taken to Columbus for examination was afflicted with a well defined case of rabies:

This is to confirm a verbal report given to you at 5:30 p. m., May 30, 1916, regarding the examination of the dog's head for rabies. Negri bodies were found in both portions of the brain and an examination under positive diagnosis for rabies was made.

I am sure that you did not delay having your daughter receive anti-rabies treatment. I trust also that you have notified them who were interested in the case as to the result of our examination in order that they may also avail themselves of anti-rabies treatment.

Very truly yours,
JAMES E. BAUMAN,
Assistant secretary of the state board of health.

CINCINNATI, O., June 1.—Attacked by four robbers, Charles King, 22, Second street and Broadway was beaten into insensibility at midnight last night. He suffered concussion of the brain and now is at the general hospital in a precarious condition.

A witness of the attack Mary Cuttoma, said that King was walking toward Plum street when the men stopped him. One of them knocked King down. The others then beat and kicked him. They then searched King's pockets and then carried their victim to a vacant lot and threw him into a small depression in the ground. The unconscious man was taken to the general hospital and is in a dangerous condition.

FUNERAL OF MRS. REDD, HELD; KILLED AT OIL WELL

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Redd, 50 years old, wife of Grant Redd, who died from the effects of an accident sustained Monday night, were held at Two Mile Christian church, this afternoon. Death occurred Memorial afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Redd and their children visited the night before, an oil well being drilled on the Louis Smith farm, near Cridersville.

Ten or 15 people were standing inside the derrick, when a bolt in the pitman broke, permitting the weight of the rope and tool to jerk the walking beam violently down towards the derrick floor. The heavy beam fell with a crash, struck a post and dislodged it, thus striking Mrs. Redd in the back.

NORDQUIST ACCEPTS CALL TO Y. M. C. A. AT SPRINGFIELD

Popular, Efficient Worker
Will be Missed in Lima.

Seven Years' Service Full of Usefulness to Boys and Men.

Mr. F. A. Nordquist, popular physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., has accepted a call from the Springfield, Ohio, association and will sever his connection with the local association to take up his work in Springfield about the middle of June. Mr. Nordquist has been connected with the local association for the past seven years, coming here from Marion, Ohio. Lima was his first field. His only experience prior to coming here was in connection with the leaders corps of the Marion Y. M. C. A. He entered the work in Lima as an assistant to Mr. W. S. Shepard and on the resignation of Mr. Shepard two years later, Mr. Nordquist was put in entire charge of the physical work.

F. A. Nordquist.

"Nordie," as he is familiarly known among both men and boys, has won a very enviable place in the hearts of all who knew him. His popularity among the men and boys has been a big factor in the success of the local work. The corps of volunteer workers that he organized in the physical department among the men is one of the best organizations in the state of its kind. Last season he organized similar work among the boys, organizing two groups, one among the boys eleven and twelve years of age and another among the boys thirteen to sixteen years of age. A year ago he conducted a boys camp at Orchard Island which has been one of the big topics of conversation among the boys who were there ever since. The host of friends that Mr. Nordquist has made in Lima and his love for the work here makes him very loath to sever his connection but he feels that the field in Springfield offers larger opportunities and that it is a promotion. The physical committee of the association, under the instructions of the board of directors, did everything possible to retain Mr. Nordquist but their efforts proved of no avail. "Nordie" will be sorely missed among the boys he has been leading for so many years and among the men with whom he associated so closely, but the host of friends of both Mr. and Mrs. Nordquist are pleased at the well deserved promotion that has come. Investigations are now going on to secure a successor to Mr. Nordquist but a decision will probably not be reached for some time.

GRAHAM RECITES THE COUNTY FAIR HISTORY

From an attendance of 500 some years up to 20,000 people, who now attend the county fair and from old-time entertainments to those of modern days, was the picture of progression painted by Charles A. Graham, secretary of the Allen County Agricultural society, in his paper on the history of fairs in this county, read at the monthly meeting of the Allen County Historical society, last night, at Memorial hall. Since 1867, Allen county fairs have been held at the place meetings now convene. The first grounds were located on the Faurot farm, southwest of Lima. Products of the farm and farm machinery formed the basis for strong competition in the olden days. Field sports were also included in the program. Mr. Graham said the old-time premium lists were of interest and great relics of the times. Fairs were the occasion for political demonstrations. With the coming of fair time, political candidates always arranged to be included on the program for a speech. Candidates in that way worked hard to secure votes. At the meeting in June the paper will be given by T. A. Maltbie, of 312 West Kibby street, from the subject, "Incidents of Allen County Men in the Civil War."

DIMES, QUARTERS AND HALVES OF NEW DESIGN TO BE MINTED

Full Length Figures in Symbolic Posture to Replace Long Familiar Liberty Heads—Models Made by Weinman and McNeil.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Dimes, quarters and half dollars of new design will be minted after July 1, Secretary McAdoo announced today. For the first time since 1891, a change will be effected in these pieces. The announcement disclosed that the half dollar has fallen practically in disuse. The new design was selected with hope of restoring it to more general circulation, it was indicated. Under the new coinage each piece will be of different design. The half dollar and dime models were made by Adolph A. Weinman and the quarter dollar by Hermon A. MacNeil. Both are sculptors of note. The face of the new half dollar bears a full length of Liberty, with a background of the American flag flying to the breeze. The Goddess is striding toward the dawn of a new day, carrying laurel and oak branches, symbolic of civil and military glory. The reverse side shows an eagle perched high upon a mountain crag, wings unfolded. Growing from a rift in the rock is a sapling of mountain pine, symbolic of America.

The design of the twenty-five cent piece is intended to typify the awakening of the country to its own protection. Secretary McAdoo's announcement stated.

Liberty, a full length figure, is shown stepping toward the country's gateway, bearing upraised a shield from which the covering is being drawn. The right hand bears an olive branch of peace. Above the head is the word "Liberty" and below the feet "1916." The reverse bears a figure of an eagle in full flight, wings extended, and the inscription "United States of America and E. Pluribus Unum."

Both the half dollar and the quarter bear the phrase "In God We Trust."

The design of the dime is simple. Liberty with a winged cap is shown on the fore side and on the reverse is a design of a bundle of rods, and a battle axe, symbolical of unity, "wherein lies the nation's strength."

THE IMPORTANT THING.

They were speaking about looking on the practical side of things, and this incident was recalled:

One afternoon late in the fall Uncle Josh was driving slowly toward the town when an acquaintance excitedly rushed out to the road and hailed him.

"Say, Josh," he explained in a palpitating voice, "have you heard the news?"

"No; don't kalkélate I have," responded Uncle Josh, sociably stopping his team. "What kind o' news is it?"

"Jim Smith committed suicide," answered the other. "Hung himself from a beam in the barn."

"Is that so?" thoughtfully rejoined Uncle Josh. "Wonder if he go all of his corn husked?"—Exchange.

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Says you really feel clean, sweet and fresh inside, and are seldom ill.

If you are accustomed to wake up with a coated tongue, foul breath or a dull, dizzy headache; or, if your meals sour and turn into gas and acids, you have a real surprise waiting you.

Tomorrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal.

Those subject to sick headaches, backaches, bilious attacks, constipation or any form of stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying this morning inside-bath. It is said that men and women who try this become enthusiastic and keep it up daily. It is a splendid health measure for it is more important to keep clean and pure on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing disease, while the bowel pores do.

The principle of bathing inside is not new, as millions of people practice it. Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost taste-

BASEBALL FOR BOYS AT PLAYGROUNDS

Miss Werum Begins Work
For the Lima Civic League.

An organized base ball team, with a regular schedule, for the boys who visit the public playgrounds in Faurot and Lincoln parks, will be a feature of the work to be accomplished by the Civic League, according to the plans of Miss Blanche Werum, playground supervisor, who arrived from her home in Columbus yesterday, to enter upon her duties here. Miss Werum predicts one of the most successful seasons.

All who visited the exhibit in the G. E. Blum window last fall and saw what excellent needlework and the pretty things the small girls who visited the play grounds made with needle, were astonished at results. Miss Werum says this season her class will be much farther advanced and the public may expect greater things.

Mothers will be invited to come to the park with their daughters and assist in teaching the children to sew. Miss Werum will be here for four months, June, July, August and September.

The little boys will make kites, there will be instruction in crepe paper work, reed basket-making, basketry and raffia work. The little ones will be taught to play scientifically and at the same time to turn their hands to useful work.

Both the play grounds in Faurot and Lincoln park will be put into operation at once. The equipment at Lincoln park, on the east side, is practically the same as at Faurot, with the exception of a slide. It is the object of the league to open play grounds on the north and south side yet this season.

Miss Werum will be with Mrs. Alan Knisely, of 1668 West Market street, during her residence in the city. She asks young women who wish instruction in this branch of work to call her by telephone or see her and she can arrange instruction for them as teachers, without cost.

EISTEDDFOD AT VENEDOCIA.

The Rev. J. Vincent Jones of Gomer, was adjudicator for recitations and essays in the big Eisteddfod held in Cambrian hall in Venedocia on Memorial day. The Rev. William Surdivat of Middlepoint, formerly located at Gomer, was conductor of the evening session.

Three sessions were held, morning, afternoon and evening. In the morning children competed. The afternoon was given over to the young people and in the evening older competitors were on the program.

asked to be present at the meeting.

GIVE HIM CREDIT

This country has been blessed in having one at the helm who has succeeded thus far in keeping us out of the world war. He may not be able to continue to do so, but we should give him credit for his efforts in endeavoring to avoid throwing us into strife that appears to grow thicker daily on the continent of Europe.

It may be that we differ in many views, religion, politics, and sympathies in the strife that is on, but there is no grounds for a variance of belief in maintaining peace, if possible with honor. Our president has made an honest effort to avoid war and to him is due credit for his efforts.

GOOD ROADS

"Good Roads". Is there any subject that is of more general interest than this? There is a general movement and agitation throughout the country in the interests of good roads, but many of us overlook the importance of the matter. Good roads mean a benefit to all. Not only is the farmer benefited, but every citizen of the country in the building of better highways. Allen county has made a start in this line, but there is a vast amount of work to be done to place her in the position she should occupy in the state in this department. It is a movement that deserves the support of every citizen, and support means development.

JAMES J. HILL

There was no secret connected with the life of the late James J. Hill. He had faith in this country—that is all there was to it: faith in the country, and good health, and industry, and a willingness to do his part. There is nothing secret about such things.

He came to the United States from Canada because he had faith in this country. Not for a moment did he despair; not once did he ever become discouraged. He had reverses—many of them. But he attributed his reverses to himself, not to the country, nor to the people of the country.

Too many men, when they have reverses, try to place the blame upon somebody else—or upon the country. They seem to think they are not appreciated. They begin making odious comparisons. They tell you how much better other countries treat people; how much better things are arranged in other countries, and they are sure they would have been more successful had they remained in some other country, or had they gone to some other country. But that was not "Jim" Hill's character. If things went wrong, it was not the fault of the country nor of others.

Nor is there any way of estimating the value to the world of one such man as James J. Hill. The Northwest would have been developed had it not been for him. Had he never lived, the fertile land of that region would have been turned into farms, and railroads would some day have been constructed. But it would have been years and years before the roads were built or before the land became farms. America would have been discovered had not Christopher Columbus sailed west in an effort to reach the East. But no one knows how long it might have been. It was the same way with the progress wrought by "Jim" Hill.

So we may look at the Great Northwest in all of its glory, and give him credit for the making. Its millions of happy, contented people; its billions of wealth; its thousands of miles of splendid railroad; its great water transportation line; its useful minerals dumped at the doors of our factories—the grain which is furnished us from day to day! For these things we may reasonably thank the one man, now dead. For he was the pioneer, with the vision of great things, who opened it up for the habitation of the race. God gave a great gift to humanity when he fashioned James J. Hill, and inspired him with the hopes and ambitions he carried through life.—Dayton News.

Dr. Chas. W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, answers those senators who fear the radicalism of Louis D. Brandeis with the statement that the rejection of Brandeis "would be a grave misfortune for the whole profession, the courts, all American business and the country". The chief obstacle to the confirmation of Brandeis seems to be his known ability and value to the country.

The clean, efficient government of the last three years and President Wilson's fearless, honest, far-seeing leadership which has dedicated the power of this great country at a time of world crisis to the expression and enforcement of the rights of all Americans and all mankind—these, the Democrats of St. Louis will say, deserve a vote of approval from the American people.

It will be recorded in impartial history that Woodrow Wilson's administration did more for all the people than any other in fifty years. Are you, citizen, going to stand by and make no protest while attempts are being made to place your country in the attitude of being unappreciative and ungrateful? If not, then take off your coat and get busy for Wilson.

If the Republicans are in favor of a permanent tariff policy, and an end to the periodic tariff agitation, let them give their platform approval to the administration's tariff commission bill, which has already been formally endorsed by the United States Chamber of Commerce, representing the business men of the nation.

There are 12,000,000 farmers in the United States. Their farms are mortgaged for about $3,000,000,000. They are paying an average interest rate of 8 1/2 per cent, or $255,000,000 a year for the use of this tremendous sum of capital. The pending rural credits bill, now sure of passage, makes 6 per cent the maximum interest rate, saving to the farmers $75,000,000 a year.

If it is unwise to swap horses while crossing a stream, wouldn't it be the height of folly to change mounts after the stream has been successfully forded and you are traveling comfortably upon the safe ground of prosperity?

"We go to Chicago next month," declaimed Republican Leader Jim Mann in the house last week, "to name the next president of the United States." He named no names and it follows unquestionably that he was referring to Woodrow Wilson.

The Old Guard Republicans of the senate have succeeded in preventing confirmation of a Progressive, Mr. Ruben, as a member of the trade commission. In their thousands of Progressives will refuse to confirm the surrender of their principles and cause to the Old Guard.

A party which is without a principle leans naturally toward a candidate who has not expressed himself on any question; or which is the logical equivalent, a candidate who has shouted for all sides of all questions for six years.

NEW NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

By DAISY DEAN

MOLLIE KING, star in "Fate's Boomerang," World picture which will be released the very last of this month, is only 18 years old, but that does not stand in the way of her success, for she has been on the stage since babyhood. She was only eight months old when a road company came to the little town where Mollie was giving her nightly converts to private audiences, and they wanted a baby in the third act—one real, live, sure-enough baby who would blink its little eyes before the footlights and let out an occasional yell.

Mollie was chosen for the part, and ever since that night Mrs. King has always felt that some day Mollie would be a leading light on the stage. When still very young, Miss King played an important child's part with Maxine Elliott in "Her Own Way." Then for half a dozen seasons she toured with popular companies, and was in vaudeville when World Film employed her to act on the screen. She made her film debut in "A Woman's Power," and so delighted were the World Film heads with her work that she was signed up on a three-year contract.

Anita Working on Newspaper Story. Anita Stewart, the Vitagraph star, is hard at work on a newspaper story in which she will play the title role.

In order to lend the finished artist's touch to her manner and dress she gained permission to visit a New York newspaper office, where she carefully noted the different actions of the women reporters. Anita is a firm believer in realism and will go to any end of trouble to obtain it in her work.

Comes frantic denial from Harold Lockwood and May Allison that they are married. They say they never had contemplated such a thing and should they marry will not marry each other. They are the best friends in the world, however, and enjoy working together.

Miss Eva Tanquay, having refused all movie offers made her so far, now values her services in pictures at $10,000 a week, and says:

MAZATLAN.

This is one of Mexico's Pacific ports, situated just across the gulf from the long thin peninsula of lower California. War and revolution have not disturbed it much. It is off the beaten roads that are followed by bandits and presidents and punitive expeditions, and still lives a peaceful life.

Restfulness is in fact the keynote of life at Mazatlan. The very color of the place is restful. The white and buff walls of the city peep through a fringe of palm trees and rest in an opulent background of green hills—like hard boiled eggs in lettuce, as O. Henry put it. Out in the harbor there are great chunks of rock that look like they have been dropped there by a passing meteor, and a gentle surf embroiders them with white foam.

You encounter just one manifestation of energy. That is in the crowd of rowboats, dugouts and motor-boats filled with jabbering Mexicans that meets your ship. They are willing to do anything for you and sell you anything. In the hope that you are not aware that cents and dollars "Mex" are worth just half as much as real United States money. They have been stirred to brief energy by the hope of getting something for nothing. Quickly they relax again into restful calm. Throughout the city the population seems to be taking a long rest. In the little green plazas that interrupt the streets the benches are decorated with recumbent caballeros and

LABORATORY AIDS FIGHT ON DISEASE

To many minds the mention of a laboratory brings some haunting suggestion of sickening furnace fires and cabalistic signs.

In the first dim morning of scientific endeavor knowledge protected itself from ignorance by a cloak of mystery. That has vanished. Science now stands close beside us ever ready to aid.

To the practicing physician the laboratory has become a necessity. There are numerous diseases which can be determined with accuracy by means of laboratory tests and with less delay than is possible without this aid.

The basis of any successful treatment must be an accurate knowledge of the disease. This is why it is necessary for the physician to have recourse to the laboratory. It makes certain what otherwise would be in doubt.

With the microscope they can determine changes of tissues which indicate disease. The chemist can determine the character of certain fluids of the body which are caused by diseases of the various organs.

Owing to the rapid advance in medical science, laboratory work has become a specialty in itself. It is impossible for the average practitioner or even the small hospitals to maintain well equipped laboratories with pathologists.

In some states free laboratories are maintained to aid practitioners in rural districts and municipalities too small to support their own.

LIMA BOYS DELIGHTED WITH MILITARY DRILL AT CULVER, IND. SCHOOL

After experiencing two weeks of soldier life in the field at Culver, Ind., the five hundred high school students have returned to civilian life. The members of this group are the boys from Lima, who attended the encampment. Named from left to right they are: F. H. Holmes, Harold H. Hawisher, Russell H. Benson, Isadore M. Epstein.

Tired and sunburned, but delighted with the experience afforded, Frank Holmes, Russell Benson, Harold Hawisher and Isadore Epstein, four Lima high school boys returned Monday, from Culver, Indiana, where they attended the summer camp of high school boys from seven states, at the Military Academy.

The local lads left Lima, on the morning of Sunday, May 14, and arrived at their destination, Culver, Ind., the evening of the same day. In preparation for the two weeks camp they were given their uniforms and equipment that same evening. At the sound of reveille at 5:30 o'clock the next morning the lads jumped into their clothes and hurried to the mess hall and after a light breakfast commenced their first day's drill under the direction of officers of the institution.

During the time the boys were in camp they drilled more than the Ohio National guard does in a whole year. Their actual time engaged in performance of military duties and maneuvers was 72 hours.

The routine work each day consisted of six drills. Most attention was given to target practice, a manual of arms, open order drills, drills on field and on march, signaling, cavalry work, machine gun drills, advanced cavalry work, and trench digging.

All of the lads that attended the high school boys' camp were subject to most of the conditions that exist in actual mobilization, learning the manner in which to pitch tents and when on the march carrying a portion of their equipment on their backs.

The Lima boys were unanimous in their opinion that the course given in signaling was probably the most interesting. The signal work was done by means of the heliograph, wireless and hand signaling. The latter is used only by companies or divisions when engaged in conflict at close quarters with the enemy. Owing to the noise of the battle it is necessary to give commands by using the hands.

Officers of the institution gave the high school boys instructions in the technicalities of warfare. Members of the senior class gave them instructions in marching and lesser important details of military life. The importance of trench digging was explained in detail by officers, who showed the difference between temporary and shelter trenches.

On May 27 a test of the knowledge that the lads had gained during their two weeks' camp was determined in "sham battle." Officials of the institution were highly pleased with the results obtained. In fact they were so pleased with the manner in which the raw recruits were whipped into shape that an effort will be made to establish such summer camps in all military schools in the country.

A representative sent from Washington by Major-General Leonard Wood reviewed the training of the boys. Officers of the school stated that much interest was being taken in progress of cadets at the school by army officers during the past few months.

In the evening the entire body of high school boys attended an illustrated lecture on formation and other maneuvers. By means of moving pictures the various drills to be used the following day were explained.

The 500 high school boys that attended the camp were from Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Kentucky, Iowa, Pennsylvania and Ohio. Their rations consisted of meat three times a day, coffee twice, chicken twice a week, ice cream twice a week. Beans and potatoes were regular entries on the table.

Just before the departure of the boys from the camp, they formed an organization which is known as the Culver Military Training Association. Members will be required to pay a fee of 25 cents toward the establishment of permanent summer camps for military training. Funds that accrue will be used in giving members of high schools throughout the country the chance to take advantage of a similar camp.

Members of the party of local boys that attended the camp will make an offer to establish a course of military training in Lima high school. Through a law just recently passed any organization or school can establish their own company by making application to the proper military authorities. The government furnishes the equipment and arms free of charge and it is only necessary for the members of the company to be placed under bond for the same.

OHIO DEMOCRATS HEAR WORD FROM WILSON

National policy. To speak of a man as a republican today identifies him with no cause, ascribes to him no opinion, and whether it affiliates him with progressives or reactionaries or both, cannot be told until after the national convention in Chicago next week has adjourned.

Opposition Divided. In other words, what used to be the strong, coherent, logical organization known as the republican party, is now, so far as its leaders are concerned, an aggregation of factions, agreeing upon no set of principles, advocating no national policy, numbering of course many wise but many foolish persons, some guided by selfishness, some unselfish, some patriotic, some thoughtless, the only common bond of union being a willingness to pool issues to win. And this party is about to meet in convention at Chicago to select what-aver candidate looks best at the last moment, and whatever principles seem to promise to weather the storm until November.

In contrast with this the democratic party, having lived through years of doubt and hesitation, with a central philosophy sometimes more a yearning than a program, now presents a matured policy, evolved by a great leader, welcomed by his party associates as the real expression of their political ideals, and already in the full tide of demonstrating its justice and its wisdom as applied both to the domestic problems of the country and to our interests involved in the conflicts of arms that rage in the world.

I shall not attempt to discuss with statistics and in detail the great constructive measures which have already been enacted or are under present consideration. As the campaign goes on, literature and speeches will impress the merits of these measures upon the mind of the country, and the questionings of all will be satisfied as to the results which have been attained. There are, however, several of these laws which I desire to draw for a few minutes in the attention of the audience. I take the largest first.

Four years ago the democratic party declared in its national platform:

"We oppose the so-called Aldrich bill or the establishment of a central bank, and we believe the people of the country will be largely freed from panics and consequent unemployment and business depression by such a systematic revision of our banking laws as will render temporary relief in localities where such relief is needed, with protection from control or domination by what is known as the 'money trust'."

The republican party, realizing the necessity of action, had, in the sixty-first congress, put the whole matter in the hands of its chief financial officer, and he, having once more consulted the oracles, presented as the republican remedy for financial panics and depressions the theory of a central bank. In favor of his plan were the combined interests of the country; some voluntary, because they understood, others hypothesized into sympathy with the plan by the great weight of the names which approved it.

But the steady common sense of the country saw that in this age of credit the control of the credit system of the nation meant the mastery of the nation's life. It saw that a central bank, not managed by the government, would manage the government. It named this menace the "money trust," and it commissioned the democratic party to save the country from the domination of its business and its life by the concentration of financial power into the hands of a few bankers in a single street in a single city.

Federal Reserve Plan. The Glass-Steagall federal reserve bank law was the answer of the democratic congress and president to this situation. It rests upon this fundamental principle—that any power which controls the economic and financial destiny of all the people of the United States can be safely trusted only to the government of the people of the United States. I shall not undertake to review the terms of that law nor dwell long upon the struggle to secure its enactment. It was bitterly opposed. Distinguished members of both the senate and the house prophesied financial ruin for the country should it become law. All the forces of centralized finance were brought to bear to obstruct its consideration. Before the committees of congress, in newspapers, in pamphlets and in books the old way was defended, and the new way attacked. The measure had been drawn before President Wilson's inauguration and had been considered by him upon the invitation of the committee having its preparation in hand. The new president threw aside the cold formalities of a written address, personally appeared in the house of representatives, and before the assembled legislators of the nation gave the bill the weight of his convincing advocacy. It was a long and hard struggle, but ultimately, so convincing was the demonstration, the bill was adopted in the house by a vote of 238 to 60, and in the senate by 43 to 25. Thirty-four republicans, 11 progressives, and one independent in the house voted for it; and in the senate one progressive senator and three republicans sided with the majority. The law was immediately put into operation, the federal reserve bank organized, and from that hour to this, under conditions which might well have shaken any less stable financial structure, the bank has stood the business and commerce of the country. There has been no cornering of the money market since the establishment of the bank. There has been elasticity in the currency—shrinking where there was no need for a large volume, and expansion when and where the transportation and financing of crops and industries were necessary.

No plank will be adopted at Chicago to repeal the federal reserve bank law; no candidate will be found willing to break a lance in that vain fight. If there were no other great achievements of the Wilson administration, this act alone would set the seal of statesmanship upon it and would afford a record for courage and wisdom upon which the party could confidently appeal to the country.

Rural Credits Bill. Steadily pursuing the policy upon which it entered into power, the democratic party has now matured a rural credits bill which gives a system of credit for the farmer, based upon the value of his lands, rendered convertible by the issuance of land bonds which will be one of the ultimate stable securities in our financial system. This act will place the farmer on an equality with the merchant and the captain of industry in commanding the credit necessary to his enterprises, and is the first comprehensive recognition by the nation of the needs and rights of those who till the soil as the foundation of our entire economic structure.

This act and the federal reserve bank act are a complete performance of the financial promises of the democratic platform, and they invite comparison with the feeble failures of the republican party, in its long retention of the federal power, to meet this great need. The marvel of it all is that in so brief a time so much has been accomplished.

The tariff legislation of the United States prior to 1912 had gone from bad to worse. Starting with the theory of infant industries, the republican doctrine had come to be that an increase in the tariff had been pointed out time and again that too high a tariff enfeebled the industrial initiative of our people; that wastefulness and inertia resulted from tariff rates which precluded competition; that behind the tariff wall consolidations inevitably monopolized industry and substituted, for the rule of a fair competitive return, prices based upon the rule "all that the traffic will bear."

When the Payne-Aldrich tariff law was made, it was made as all other republican tariffs had been for many years. It was the only way the republicans knew how to make a tariff. The ways and means committee of the house called in the men who were interested in tariff from these states and asked them to draw the lines which they desired for the protection of their industries. And when the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill was finally passed, it was a palpable fraud upon the promise of the party which passed it.

of education, untrained in the arts of government-making, the people of Mexico have struggled to express in institutions their idea of the rights of man. It has been very disordered, sometimes very wrong-headed, frequently characterized by counter-revolution, its leading spirits apparently suspicious of one another. The gross ambitions of individuals have sometimes perverted their fidelity to the common cause. But no great revolutions of the kind there in progress can be unattended by these misfortunes. Our misfortune has been that between us and these struggling people there was a border eighteen hundred miles long. Some American owners of Mexican mines, some American proprietors of Mexican concessions, some Americans who look with longing eyes on Mexico as Naboth's vineyard, have urged that we should intervene, that we should add the destructiveness of our force to the desolation which has gone on there for years.

I cannot tell what the future may bring from this situation, but for my part I shall be most happy if the necessary security of our people can be obtained without the killing of another Mexican man, woman or child by American arms. And those who criticize the Mexican policy of the administration must be prepared to accept the alternative and say that their choice is to make war upon these people who have yielded no act of aggression upon us, to invade their country, and to spend years in the occupation of a foreign soil, and, in a toilsome effort, expensive of life and treasure, to impress our alien civilization upon these people.

Upon the European situation I shall say but a word. The great war, the most devastating in history, is filling the most civilized portion of the globe with disabled and dead. All the normal arts of life are forgotten. The energy of madness now dedicates the lives and property of these people to mutual destruction. Perhaps it is the last war that will ever be fought for such reasons as have caused this one. When it is over, the people of these countries will demand preventive statesmanship, and new arrangements will in all likelihood result which will bring nearer the ideal of permanent peace. Whether or not that result is reached, two things at least are true: It is better for the people of the United States not to be involved in that vast destruction if it can be honestly avoided; and it is better for humanity for the United States not to be involved, in order that when the end of the struggle comes, there will be one great and persuasive power in friendly relations with all of the belligerents, inspired only by high motives of humanity and friendship, to aid as adviser and counselor in the terms of readjustment necessary.

The course of the administration has been to regard itself as, in the nature of the case a trustee, for the time being, of the rights of neutrals. It has, in the language of Senator Root, refused to concede that the invention of new ways of committing forbidden acts changed the law with relation to them. And so when mere property was involved, every violation of the rights of neutrals has been followed by protest; and where life was involved—the life of our citizens—a firm demand has been made for immediate recognition of our plain and undisturbed rights.

Underwood Tariff. Doubtless there were many, after the election of 1912, who feared a revolutionary tariff adjustment. But the Underwood tariff was the work of statesmen; it added to the free list, reduced many of the schedules, removed burdens from many of the necessities of life, stimulated our manufacturers to the installation of more economical methods and better machinery, reduced in some part at least the high cost of living, and made a conservative and promising start toward more sympathetic commercial relations between us and the other nations of the earth. And it introduced as its novel gift to our institutions the income tax. This law lays its burden upon the wealth of the country rather than upon the necessities of the people and opens up a source of revenue, scientific and equitable, which may yet save the nation should there be an interruption of our foreign trade of such a character as to cut off income from these duties upon imports, upon which for so many years the maintenance of our government has had to depend. This, too, is a signal achievement, and there will be at Chicago no plank adopted to repeal the income tax, nor will there be any very noticeable call for an increase in the schedules of the Underwood tariff.

The breaking out of the European war entailed an enormous reduction in our revenues from imports. Had the income tax not been included in the Underwood tariff bill, the deficit would have been very great. As it was, however, the ordinary receipts of the government in 1914—the first year of the Underwood law—amounted to $734,343,700, which was $2,324,000 more than the aggregate revenue in 1913 under the Payne law, and $43,565,235 more than in 1912 under the Payne law. So the democratic administration has not merely provided a new and scientific element in our fiscal system but it has produced revenues necessary for the expanding needs of the nation under difficult and disturbed conditions; and by the proposal which has been made for the creation of a tariff commission, the uncertain situation which will come with the close of the European war has been anticipated and an instrument suggested which will protect our markets and our people in any contingency that can arise.

The president's definition of the purpose of this commission is that it shall do nothing to govern the policies of policy; it would deal only with the facts of industry and conditions of economic change prevailing in the world so that legislation of every kind that touch these matters might be guided by the circumstances disclosed by its inquiry.

The democratic party forced the passage of the constitutional amendment providing for the direct election of senators of the United States. It has created the federal trade commission. It is now dealing with the shipping question in a bill which seeks to restore the lost American merchant marine and to reopen the arteries by which our products can flow in exchange to nations from which we are now cut off by the absorption of the shipping of the world into the business of the belligerents. The congress is now considering measures for the conservation of the natural resources of the nation, the development under suitable safeguard of water-power upon navigable streams and streams on the public land and in the national forests. This congress will pass the first national child labor law.

Foreign Policy. Upon the foreign policy of the administration, I must be brief. There are two elements of it which need a word of discussion—Mexico and the European war.

The republic of Mexico, lying south of us, was for years ruled by a dictator who operated the country in the interest of a class and left ninety per cent of the people of the nation unable to read or write. The concessions of the rich were largely privileges to enslave the poor. And small profits for the direct class of the great revolution, the time people of Mexico resolved that there was nothing divine about the order which fattened the few at the cost of the many. They revolted. Deprived

The Call of the West—Acts 16:6-15

1. What disagreement did Paul and Barnabas have? Was Paul wrong? What were the later relations of Barnabas and Paul? Whom did Paul and Silas find at Lystra? What more should the churches do to encourage young men to become missionaries and preachers than they are doing? If Paul should visit our church what would he commend, criticize?

2. V. 6. Is there any encouragement in this incident to give up the work of speaking to others about Christ?

3. Vs. 7, 8. What comfort in these verses for those who have been hindered from serving God in their own way?

4. V. 9. Who is the man of Macedonia? today? the "Macedonian call" faded away from modern Christians? How are they responding to the call?

5. V. 10. Read the gospel of Mark counting the number of times "straightaway" and "immediately" are used.

6. V. 12. What does this incident teach about keeping the Sabbath away from home? A discussion of the value of the place of prayer. Why do we seek it? Why do we neglect it? How maintain it?

7. V. 14. What evidenced Lydia's sound conversion? Why is baptism more prominent in Christian work in heathen lands than in Christian lands? What evidences are you showing? How utilize more fully women's responsiveness and loyalty to religion?

Sunday School Forum.

1. Give a method of securing a chorister and many singers. Find the best qualified person for chorister and secure his appointment as a sacred call for Christian service; provide him with all the helps possible—a folder of clippings may be provided. Singers may be secured by appeals to classes singing different verses; a Sunday school choir may be organized.

2. What financial plan for the support of the Sunday school is growing in favor? The church budget plan including the Sunday school expenses is considered the best plan. Under this plan, every member of the school is given the opportunity of making weekly contributions to the church budget; if the every-member canvass plan is used, each member of the school is solicited for weekly support of the church budget and is given a package of envelopes.

The State Convention. The topic for the state Sunday school convention at Findlay, O., June 19-22, will be "Religion in Education and Education in Religion." There will be a special conference of college men, at which papers will be read by Prof. T. Milton Vance, Wooster University; Prof. Charles Foster Kent, Yale University; Prof. Walter S. Athearn, Drake University, Des Moines, Ia.; Dr. M. A. Honline, Bonebrake University, Dayton, and Dr. Franklin McElfresh, Columbus, O.

National Church Memorial Service. Under the auspices of the federal council of churches of the United States, the last Sunday in May or some other later Sunday is to be used for special services in memory of the war sufferers; in many churches special offering for war relief will be taken.

laws giving freedom to the cities without taking it from the rural districts, giving our municipalities the power to determine affairs that concern them alone, but without imposing burdens upon others not members of the municipal unit. The task demands wisdom and fidelity and courage. I ask those of you who believe this to be a task of paramount importance whether the people of Ohio can look for its performance with better expectation to the present state administration or to a return to the administration of James M. Cox? Surely there can be but one answer to this question. All the virtues needed for its accomplishment were shown in the two great constructive years 1912-1914.

We ask the people of Ohio to try no experiment, to entrust their great concerns to no unfamiliar hand, to take nothing on faith, but, having stood still and rested now for two years, to take up under the old leadership and under the tried and proved administration a continuance of the march which is necessary to keep us in the vanguard in this sisterhood of states.

As a people we have been much lulled by party names and party traditions, sometimes to our harm and hindrance. A candid mind is obliged to admit that any great party in its history shows moments of departure from fidelity to its central principles, and it is not always that a party man, unless he be overcome by party enthusiasm, can claim that the welfare of his party is bound up with the welfare of the state, but today in state and nation, under the leadership of the providential, the interest of the people of Ohio, of the people of the United States, perhaps even the welfare of the people of the world, is inextricably associated with a continuance of the democratic party in power. And, believing, as I do, in the profound common sense of the American people, I look forward to a verdict at their hands which will continue this great constructive program, in which so much has already been accomplished, with new impulse toward even higher and larger achievements.

PEACE AT ANY PRICE

HENRY WARD BEECHER
writes that the "old Greeks" said that a man had two ears and one mouth that he might hear twice and speak once, and there is a good deal of sense in it. You will find that if you simply hold your peace, you will pass over nine out of ten provocations of life. And I believe it, don't you?

"The other day as I was passing a husband and wife on Main street, I heard the woman say in no undetermined sort of a voice, 'But I will never enter her house again after the way she acted.' And in a reasonable voice from the husband, 'But you were hasty, are you positive you understood? And why understand the sun did you say anything?'
Of course not knowing of what they were speaking, although I should believe it would take a Sherlock Holmes, or wire tapping to make a pretty good supposition, the wise words of Henry Ward Beecher came to my mind about the two ears and the one mouth. Alas, how often do we women make that mistake, jumping at conclusions, failing to see a thing correctly, and thereby making mistakes to the disadvantage of many others beside ourselves. It does not take any more time to see a thing correctly than to see it incorrectly. It takes a little more sense, that is all.

Think of the minutes of irritation one could save oneself if one would just give their other ear a chance to hear before some hasty and unworthy, as well as unnecessary thing, drops off the tip of your tongue.
Hold your peace in spite of all the wild war raging about you, and in holding your peace be prepared, by taking the cotton out of BOTH ears
You can't possibly take part in the preparedness parade we are advancing if you don't practice what you preach. Another paradox—(we are given over to them in this column)
—be prepared for peace at any price
—when it comes to opinions and conclusions.

MARRYING A BUTTERFLY

By MRS. EVA LEONARD Y

Isn't It Enough to Make One Cry When a Horrid Maid is Impudent?

"W" HY ETHEL, what is the matter?" asked Ralph Gordon, coming into the bedroom, and finding his wife sobbing in a heap on the foot of the bed. He had passed through the empty living room in his search for her. Ethel sat up at the sound of his voice and pushed back her disheveled hair.

"Close the door," she said tragically. He obeyed and came and sat on the side of the bed to learn the cause of the tears.
"That maid—" began Ethel.
"What, Minnie?" interrupted
Ralph.

"Yes; she was so impudent today.
I was telling her what I wanted prepared for the refreshments for the little evening gathering and what do you suppose she said?" Ethel paused impressively.

"I haven't the slightest idea, but you surely were not crying because of what a maid said to you?" Ralph asked incredulously.

"Well, wait till you hear what she said," resumed the tearful little woman. "When I asked her to prepare some salad and make a cake and chocolate and cut the sandwiches in patterns and—and—" she swallowed a sob, "she said that it took folks that knew nothing about work to be the most unfeeling mistresses; that I had given her enough work for that day to keep three maids busy." Ralph laughed.

"How can you laugh, Ralph Gordon. It is bad enough to have your maid impudent, but to have your husband think it is funny and laugh at you is—"
The rest of the sentence was drowned in tears and delivered into the pocket handkerchief.

"Why, my dear," said the young man, stifling his mirth. "She simply meant that you were giving her more to do than she could get done because you had no idea how much time and strength anything would take. I do not see anything to be miserable over. I suppose the truth hits home pretty hard, though."

"And she said if things did not get better she should go back to Milwaukee." Ethel stopped crying long enough to deliver herself of this crushing sentence.

"She knows that will fetch you;
she has you on the hip. Whatever would you do if she left?" asked Ralph, drawing her toward him to hasten the comforting process.

"I do not know," wailed the helpless little thing, laying her head on his shoulder.

"It is awful to be so dependent on servants, little girl. Why do you not learn something about housework and cooking so you would know more what you were asking when you give orders. I'll tell you what to do," he began again brightly after a pause. "You tell Minnie that you will prepare the refreshments for the guests if she will do the other work that day."

"Ethel removed the handkerchief from her eyes and looked reproachfully at her husband.

"I can't begin practicing cooking on guests! You want things the nicest possible when you have company, and this is my first party."

"Well, couldn't you help with the other work on that day, so Minnie could get the extra time needed to prepare refreshments?"

"And get my hands all spoiled for the evening." There was withering scorn in her tone.

"But what will you do? You do not want to let her think you are trying to overwork her. She would be sure to leave them," ventured Ralph.

"Well, I guess there are more maids," said Ethel loftily, sliding off the bed and going to the mirror to repair the ravages of the storm.

"I doubt it, at least here in Fair-port. Take my advice and go slow, or you will find yourself alone with all the work to do."

Ethel tossed her head as she rubbed the powder on her face. Her husband's attitude had hardened her in her determination to let Minnie see who was mistress of that house.

ACROSS THE DESERT SANDS

Copyright 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

WE were a long caravan that started out from Palm Springs one morning at dawn to cross into the heart of the desert, where we were to take scenes from a story laid in the famous Death Valley. Even when we started out, though the sky was still opaqued with the dawn, we could feel the throbbing pulse of the desert.

Most of us rode on horseback, with the exception of two or three,
who preferred the covered vans;
all dreading the moment when the fiery ball of sun would glare down upon us.

It was slow traveling—the horses' hoofs sank deep into the sand, but I can never forget the wonders of the marvelous country as the day awakened. I had always thought of great barren wastes when dreaming of the desert, and did not know the night, who waits at dawn for

One of the cowpunchers who had lived on the desert all his life, told us in the picturesque vernacular of the men of the far places the story of the cycle of life in the desert.

It is all a struggle for existence—the big bug eats the little bug, the bird destroys them both. The snake lies in wait to charm the birds so that he, too, can feast. Then there is the road runner who kills the snake, and the coyote, low baying in the night, who waits at dawn for the road runner. He told us of the wily animals that tracked the coyotes to their lairs, and when the burning desert in turn starves them, then the vulture, sailing high against the blue sky, sweeps down in circular flight to feed upon their carcasses.

For three hours we pounded our way through the baking sands, and made so many demands upon the water in our canteens that we were warned to control our thirst as it would be several hours before we would strike a well.

I will never forget how tight my throat closed as if an unseen hand gripped it in strong, relentless fingers. The blood pounded in my temples and the heat waves made the cactus gyrate in strange, dancing, whirling forms.

Several of the women fainted and the heads of the horses drooped. The men encouraged us to keep on, though their faces were getting baggy and their eyes seemed staring from the sockets. We had lost our way.

Twice I felt myself crumbling into a heap and had to grip the horse's mane to keep from falling off. Then, lo, in the distance, as if we had suddenly come over the brow of a hill, we saw a lake whose cool waters lapped the banks of a green meadow. Great eucalyptus trees grew close to the water's edge and their shadows trembled in the reflection of the lake.

"Look!" I cried, and so joyous was my exclamation that it aroused even the women who had given up all hope.

"Look!" the men echoed, and a wan, flickering smile broke over their faces. "Water!" It was a terrible cry wrung from the very hearts of us who were suffering poignantly not only from heat, but from that mad thirst which paralyzes the senses.

Only the cowboy, who knew the desert, did not rejoice. He stared straight ahead at the lake and shook his head.

"That ain't no lake," he informed us laconically. "It's a mirage."

"A mirage!" and we all stared again, believing the cowboy to have suddenly gone mad. Why, we could even see the ripples in the lake and the wind waving the branches of the trees. Several of the men demanded we swing our horses in the direction of the lake, but the cowboy fought them back.

"We're close to the trail," he told us. "I know this here country, and God pity yuh if yuh pursue them phantoms of water."

It was true. When we turned to the right we could see a little pond and when we turned to the south, it was as though we were making straight for the great waves of the Pacific.

Another two hours and we reached an oasis, where we lingered until the dusk cooled the desert and we could return to Palm Springs.

That was the only day the camera was not turned. We had too nearly become a part of the cycle of death on the desert.

WELSH RED INDIANS.

Eight or nine hundred years ago a band of adventurous Welshmen landed on the American coast and planted a colony. They never went back, and, according to Mr. James McLaughlin in "My Friend the Indian," "became in some sort the ancestors of a tribe of Indians, for the Mandans are thought by some writers to be the descendants of the lost Welshmen. Some philologists have endeavored to prove this to their own satisfaction, and it is said that the Mandans to this day retain in their vocabulary a great many distinctly Welsh words. And for hundreds of years they maintained physical and mental characteristics that have raised them above their fellows."—Exchange.

Sneath, of Tiffin, O. The vote taken yesterday and announced today showed that Mrs. Cowles received 1,273 ballots against 433 for Mrs. Sneath.

It is expected that the Louisiana and Arkansas delegations will ask for the next meeting of the biennial convention, and the contest will be between New Orleans and Hot Springs.

Proof of the strenuous activities in which the club women have indulged during the last few days was furnished today by the news that at least 100 visitors had been treated every day at the emergency stations set up by local women physicians, members of the federation, at the convention hall and in hotels.

TRINITY MEN WILL ENTERTAIN FRIDAY

Tomorrow (Friday) evening the men of Trinity church are entertaining all the ladies and children of the church as a result of the ladies winning the recent contest, "A Trip to Jerusalem." Secrecy surrounds every phase of the program and much conjecture is aroused as to just what the program is to be. No one seems to know. It has developed that some of the best talent of the city is in the performance whatever it is. It is also rumored that refreshments are to be served. Judging from the crowds that participated in the ten weeks' contest which has just closed, it is presumed that at least 1,000 people will be entertained at the church. An invitation has been given to any member of the Trinity church and any friend of the church.

brought to bear. The program also contains a new comedy, "Sweet Charity," in which Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew do some capital fooling. To see Ethel Barrymore and her uncle, Sidney Drew, on the same program is an unusual treat.

The Strand's new Unicorn service is creating much favorable comment and today's program gives one an excellent idea of what can be seen at this cozy little theatre at the southwest corner of the square. The big Unicorn production entitled "The Spirit of Revenge" gives one an excellent idea of study whether or not it is really wise to encourage a desire for revenge. In addition to this will be shown a drama as well as a comedy hit entitled "Count Meout." The Unicorn pictures are changed at the Strand daily and the Strand is being favored with increased attendance daily.

AT DREAMLAND.

The Masterpiece at the Dreamland today will no doubt pack that little theatre to capacity, for with Margaret Gibson playing the lead in "The Leopard's Bride" as Nadje, in the "The Leopard's Bride" a beautiful Hindu girl in love with an English captain who has saved her life, Margaret Gibson, give one of the most convincing performances of her eventful career as a successful actress.

The handsome captain, who is attached to a military post in Canada, falls in love with an American girl which causes a jealous superior officer to send him upon a dangerous mission to get him out of the way. An absorbing plot develops in the very depths of the jungle where the four principals of the drama are brought together by the meeting of two hunting expeditions. Thrilling animal scenes in which unique situations and daring rescues keep the interest at a high pitch are an important part of the action, while the noble sacrifice of Nadje makes possible the stirring climax which brings the two lovers together.

AT THE ROYAL.

At the Royal today will be shown a three-reel Selig drama with splendid acting and directing. Lewis Cody takes the lead, while Virginia Kirtley, Eugene Basener, Marion Warner and Fred Hearn play capable parts. Harvey, the sponsor for a very successful charity, enlists the support of several wealthy people, since they know that he possesses a large income which makes him eligible. They still retain when they learn that he never had a legitimate father, but they dismiss him abruptly when they learn that his income has been cut off. The only ones who befriend him are the minister and his daughter. Later Harvey comes into a large fortune, and the society sycophants who snubbed him, try to regain his good will, but he ignores them—and marries the minister's daughter. In addition to this splendid two-reeler will be shown a Beauty comedy with Orval Humphreys in "Twenty Minutes in Magic."

Seat Sale Predicts a Big Crowd

CHICAGO, Ill., June 1.—A record advance sale of more than 30,000 reservations for the Second International Auto Derby to be run here on June 10 has been announced by the officials of the local speedway, who know expect forty starters when the entry lists close today. Coming as it does during the week of the republican and progressive national conventions the demand for seats from out of town have been ten times what would be the ordinary run of things. This does not mean, however, that there is any shortage of seats, as the huge grand stands hold close to 150,000; but it is an indication that the local race will break all previous records so far as attendance is concerned. Last year 80,000 viewed the battle for first place with an advance sale only two weeks before the race of 5,000 tickets.

There will undoubtedly be two Hudson cars in the race. Vail has already entered the one in which he scored at New York and Ralph Mulford has sent word that he has a new super-six at Indianapolis that he will enter in the Chicago race along with his Peugeot. He will probably handle the Hudson himself, and it would not surprise the local followers of the speed game if Joe Dawson returned to the game at the wheel of the Peugeot.

The fact that there are two cars from the Hudson factory in the racing game at the present time would lead one to believe that the Hudson company is going in for racing this year, although they make no official statement and do not appear in the deal to the public or to the Speedway officials.

Champion of State Is Signed

Dale Armentrout, of this city, is the latest to affix his name to an entry blank for the automobile races at Lima Driving park, July 4. Officials of the Lima Speedway association will now be able to draw a breath of relief, as they realize that he is a big drawing card, holding as he does the half-mile dirt-track championship of Ohio.

At the present time it is not known what car he will drive in the events, but it is known that he has been working on a car in Cincinnati. He states that for certain reasons the car will be known only as the "Masked Marvel," until just before the races. Last year Armentrout cleaned up in grand style on all the half-mile tracks in the state.

Sidney to Play Lima On Sunday

Two undefeated teams will oppose each other next Saturday afternoon at Murphy street ball park when the Lima club stacks up against the Sidney team. Manager Berger's outfit on the Miami river has annexed six victories thus far in the season and has yet to taste defeat. The list of teams defeated includes the fast Dayton Reserves, Piqua and the Springfield Athletics. The Lima club itself has a rather enviable record with three straight wins to its credit over teams of the calibre of the Springfield Athletics, Payne and the Perfection Spring Company, of Cleveland. Critics who have seen the Callahan crew in action pronounce it the best balanced outfit that has ever represented this city in semi-pro base ball, not even excepting the championship team of 1915.

Sidney will bring a number of fast players to Lima to try to check the winning streak of the Independents and at the same time maintain its own habit of coping the long end of the score. Stocklein, last year with the Dayton Cadets, will hold forth at short. Spickety with the Springfield Athletics in 1915 will do the receiving and Limpitcuna who has a record of 26 strikeouts in the two games that he has worked this season will undoubtedly receive the call to work at the other end of the battery.

"Limp" has been pitching ball for a number of years now and is the idol of the fans in the Shelby county capital. He has played with several minor league teams at different occasions but on the whole prefers to maintain his permanent quarters in Sidney. He is one of the cleanest hurlers in the game out to win but a true sportsman in defeat.

Carroll, who has the credit for all three victories of the Lima club will be sent to the hill again in an effort to make it four straight. He has been showing better form in every game and says he has not yet attained all his speed which comes to him gradually in the early months of the season. He is rapidly becoming as popular with Lima fans as was Bobby Curtis, who twirled the Independents to a championship last fall.

Why All Wool HERE'S WHY

When you think of Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes as all-wool garments, don't stop then: just consider the bearings of all-wool clothes on the way the suit wears, fits, keeps its shape.

The difference between wool fabric and part cotton doesn't appeal until after the clothes are worn a while. You want all wool; you'll get it when you buy a suit with the Hart Schaffner & Marx label in it.

PRICES RALLY UNDER
WALL ST. TRADINGLOCAL MARKET
Corrected to Date

NEW YORK, June 1.—On the reversal, Reading lost a point with two points or more for Louisville and Nashville and Son, while Butte and Superior, American Zinc, Tennessee Copper and Continental Can were down 1 to 2 points with 4 1/2 for Bethlehem Steel. Pressure relaxed later and prices rallied quite generally with a continuance of activity in beet sugar and revival of yesterday's inquiry for Gulf States Steel issues, which rose 2 to 5 points. Marine preferred also improved on publication of a statement outlining the company's large cash resources and United States Fruit rose substantially. Trading halted on the recovery which was well maintained. Bonds were steady.

The Mexican situation was again the overshadowing feature at the resumption of trading today, Mexican Petroleum soon yielding 2 1/2 points with heaviness in other speculative issues. There were nominal advances in Reading, Lehigh Valley, Great Northern preferred, U. S. and Crucible Steels, as well as Mercantile Marine preferred, while beet sugar rose a full point with Chandler Motors. All of these gains were lost before the end of the first half hour, the list in general becoming more reactionary on increased activity.

NEW WHEAT OFFERS
HAS BEAR EFFECT

CHICAGO, June 1.—Announcement that Oklahoma was offering to ship newly harvested wheat within a fortnight had a bearish effect today on the market. The opening which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to 1/4 % higher, with July at $1.07 to 1.07 1/2 and September at $1.09 to 1.08 1/2, was followed by a slight further hardening and then a decided sag.

Unfavorable weather gave temporary strength to corn. Later, the market weakened with wheat. After opening unchanged to 1/4 % higher, prices scored moderate gains, but soon dipped below yesterday's finish.

Oats proved relatively firm. As a rule commission houses were on the buying side, although only in small lots.

Provisions averaged lower. Aggressive support was lacking.

Absence of any important export call led subsequently to greater weakness in wheat. The close was heavy, 1 1/2 to 1 % net lower.

Wheat, July $1.05 1/2; Sept. $1.05 1/2, and September at $1.07 1/2 and $1.07 1/2.

Corn, July 69 1/4; Sept. 69 1/4. Oats, July 40; Sept. $21.12. Pork, July $21.40; Sept. $21.12. Lard, July $12.42; Sept. $12.52. Ribs, July $12.27; Sept. $12.35.

RESCUED FROM EPICURES.
Miss Marie Sackow, of Newton, Kansas, and three other missionaries of Liberia, were rescued in December from death at the hands of cannibals by the United States scout cruiser Chester, says the Christian Herald. On account of the economic conditions, natives among whom the missionaries had been working, returned to their former cannibal practices. The missionaries were in great danger, since the cannibals prefer the meat of white persons rather than black. The missionaries had been stationed at Jacktown, Liberia, and managed to make their way to Greenville, but could not get a boat to carry them to Monrovia. News of the disturbances was carried to Monrovia by native runners. Shortly after the missionaries reached Greenville, the American scout cruiser steamed into the bay, landed 200 native soldiers, and took the missionaries on board.

ASHLAND—While Roy Hursh was removing a 100-pound sack of sugar from a pile his right hand slipped and flew back with such force against his face that one of the bones in his nose was broken.

TOLEDO—A special train has been chartered for officers of the Knights and Ladies of Security who will hold their national convention here June 13 to 19. More than 200 delegates are expected to attend the meeting. The train will be run from Toledo, Kansas, to Chicago and then to Toledo.

WOOSTER—The grape berry worm, a small insect that bores into young grapes and causes them to be worthless for marketing can be exterminated or controlled by proper spraying, according to entomologists of the Ohio experiment station here, who have just completed a ten-year study on the subject. Two sprayings are required—one when the grapes are about one-eighth of an inch in diameter, and the second about six weeks later. The experiment station experts say spraying at other times have failed to control the grape worm in Ohio. The experiments were conducted in the northern part of Ohio along Lake Erie.

UNCLE SAM GETS INTO BUSINESS OF INSURANCE

Bureau of War Risks Provides For American Shipping on Seas.

Government Assumes Protection at Charge That is Fair.

Frederic J. Haskin.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 1.—One of the most interesting of the war developments in a business way is the fact that it induced the United States government to go into the insurance business. Uncle Sam has been underwriting policies for 18 months now—time enough to give his abilities in this line a fair try-out, and to justify the people of the country in asking how he is getting along.

Uncle Sam's record bears investigation very well. As an insurance man he has been almost successful enough to have his biography printed among those of the poor but daring captains of industry who saw their chances and made their fortunes. The federal insurance bureau has a balance on the right side of its ledger of almost 2,000,000 dollars.

Of course, the balance may not last long. All insurance is more or less an uncertain business, and the government's insurance business is the most uncertain of all. Its very uncertainty is the reason that the government is in it. It was too uncertain for anybody else; too uncertain for all the private companies to handle together. The official name of the new bureau is the Bureau of War Risk Insurance.

Like the rest of the federal departments and bureaus, the War Risk Insurance Bureau was never intended for a profit-maker. It was established for an emergency measure, to relieve an acute and critical situation. It did its work so quietly and well that few people realize now how critical that situation really was.

When the war broke out, American business was faced by the problem of protection for American shipping. There was a brisk demand for American goods abroad, there were American goods in plenty to be shipped, but in between lay the broad Atlantic, representing a whole lot of new maritime perils whose gravity and very nature were only a matter of guess-work. No merchants were willing to risk large shipments on those waters without having them adequately protected by insurance. American insurance companies were confronted by a situation that was rather beyond them to handle.

There were three factors complicating that situation. In the first place, the hazards of voyage had increased immensely. In the second place, the volume of shipping increased rapidly as Europe began to buy. In the third place, in the financial disturbance that swept the whole world, the expedient of reinsurance in England, by which risks may be reinsured in the London market was seriously limited. Owing to the coincidence of the August Bank Holiday, the reinsurance markets were entirely closed for the first three days of this critical period, and American companies had to carry the total insurance risk themselves. As a result, they cut down on the amount of insurance they would accept on any one vessel or its cargo. Small companies limited themselves to small amounts, while the maximum for the biggest companies stood at $100,000 or $150,000. For this it followed that the shippers could not get anything like the amount of insurance they wanted, and were forced to carry a large proportion of the risk themselves.

What insurance was obtainable came high. It was perhaps not too high from the standpoint of the issuing companies who were facing an unprecedented set of circumstances, but it was high enough to put a serious obstacle in the way of foreign trade, had nothing been done to alleviate the situation. Premiums on vessels and cargoes passing through the North Sea ran as high in some instances as thirty per cent—a cargo valued at $100,000 thus paying $30,000 in insurance to cover the war hazards of the brief voyage. Rates to the far east went as high as 20 per cent, and even rose to South America, where rates reached 10 per cent—$100,000 on a $100,000 cargo.

The situation called for prompt action. The marine insurance problem was rated among the most serious brought up by the war. A special conference of business men called together by the Secretary of the Treasury decided unanimously that the three things demanding immediate government attention were the needs for a merchant marine, for facilities for financing foreign trade, and for handling war risk insurance. The insurance feature was acted on at once. A bill was passed through Congress within two weeks, in spite of some opposition in the House. American business interests favored the measure almost unanimously, as the private underwriters were obviously embarrassed by the situation.

The bill provided for the establishment of a Bureau of War Risk

Insurance in the Treasury Department, and the day after the President signed the measure, the bureau opened for business. It was accepting risks two weeks before it could set them forth on its regular form policies, because the policies weren't printed yet. It has issued 1,444 policies to date, an average of 80 a month. The policies are no small ones. The aggregate of the risks is over 120 million dollars.

The immediate effect of the establishment of the bureau was the standardizing and lowering of the rates. Between non-belligerent ports in the western hemisphere the rate went down to 37 cents on the $100, where in the early days of the war it had been in some cases as high as $1. Rates to the far east sank to $1 on the $100, the panic rates having been as high as $15 or $20 in some cases. On large and valuable cargoes such differences soon total immense sums. The rates, of course, would have come down in any case, but the bureau caused them to come down promptly and to the lower practicable level. Today rates are still lower owing to the fact that commerce destroyers have been practically swept from the seas.

So accustomed has the world become to war conditions that all these rates for war risk insurance have been tabulated and published. Only in the case of certain special ports, notably those in the United Kingdom and the belligerent countries of Europe, the bureau considers each application for insurance individually, and makes a special rate based on the war situation and the nature of the vessel and its cargo.

The making of rates is plainly the bureau's most important and delicate task. The office is organized accordingly. The regular staff consists of only a director, an assistant director, three clerks and a messenger—a pretty small force for a concern doing a two million dollar business. In addition, however, there is an advisory board composed of three expert insurance men, who do not serve regularly but only as they are needed. While they are on the active list each of them draws $25 a day. The whole expense of running and organizing the bureau only totaled about $18,000 last year. If the war should stop tomorrow, this venture into the insurance business would have proved one of the most profitable the government has ever made. It is of course impossible to forecast what losses any day may bring forth.

So far the bureau has been most fortunate. The heavy losses have been only four—the steamers Evelyn, Lynn, Carib and Greenbrier, and the sailing-ship William P. Frye—the famous Frye that was sunk by a German cruiser, while bound for Europe loaded with wheat. The Evelyn and the Carib were carrying cotton to Bremen. Both of these boats were sunk by mines. The mine that sent the Evelyn to the bottom exploded so far forward that some of the cargo was released, and approximately $50,000 worth of it has been salvaged.

The fate of these two cotton ships points to one of the principal activities of the bureau in the early days of the war. The federal war risk insurance was one of the biggest aids toward relieving the tension in the cotton belt. The bureau also insured many of the American ships bringing dye-stuffs and cyanide from Germany before the blockade had assumed its present strictness. By enabling these vessels to take prompt advantage of the opportunity while it lasted, the bureau performed a big service for American industry.

Uncle Sam can not claim to be unique in having a government war risk insurance bureau, nor even to have been a pioneer in the movement. England was the most far-sighted of nations in this respect; she had her bureau planned down to the last detail before the war. Today practically all of the belligerents as well as all the neutral countries with important shipping provisions have their government provisions for insurance. The situation is universally recognized as one too fraught with hazard to be adventured by unassisted private capital.

There is no doubt that the American bureau met a pressing need in highly creditable fashion. Had the bureau not been established, a greater or lesser paralysis of international trade must have supervened. Such a condition could not have been permanent; the interests at stake were too great, and private capital would have found a way out; but the government was in a position to act more quickly and decisively than any combination of private interests.

The original bill provides that the life of the bureau shall end on the second of September, 1916. Another bill is already before Congress, extending the period two years further. The bureau will doubtless operate as long as the war lasts. It is highly improbable that it will last longer. At present it is supplementing private marine insurance activities. In peace times it would be in danger of competing with them, a state of affairs incompatible with American theories of government.
